Only 500,000 jobs available for .9M grads

By Christian V. Esguerra

ONE OF PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-Arroyo's economic managers yesterday gave the public a dose of reality, saying only around 500,000 jobs could be created this year—way below Malacañang's ambitious target of three million.

Legacy head hit for fraud

Senators also lash out at SEC execs for failing to do job

SENATORS Mar Roxas (left) and Chiz Escudero (right) grill officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) on why they were unable to detect Legacy's troubles during Monday's Senate hearing on preneed plans.

HOT SEAT Celso de los Angeles, owner of Legacy Plans which filed for bankruptcy last December, appears for the first time at the Senate hearing.

SEC Director Jose Aquino incurs the ire of senators when he could not say how much money Legacy owed its plan holders.

By Michael L. Ubac and Christine O. Avendaño

CELSO DE LOS ANGELES, founder of the Legacy Group that includes rural banks and preneed firms, yesterday said he sold a property in Ayala-Alabang in Muntinlupa City worth P57 million a week before Legacy applied for voluntary dissolution last December.

The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) ordered Legacy's 13 rural banks, which have a combined P14.01 billion in insured deposits in 132,042 bank accounts, closed just before last Christmas for being insolvent and for engaging in unsafe and unsound practices.

Legacy's preneed firms (Legacy Consolidated Plans Inc., Scholarship Plan Philippines Inc. and All Asia Plans Corp.) that have some 58,000 plan holders have also ceased operations. Preneed plans (education, pension and memorial) are contracts that provide for future services or payment of money at the time of actual need.

Legacy owner blames BSP, media, global crisis for woes

By Joanna P. Los Baños

STO. DOMINGO, ALBAY—Interference by regulators, unfair media reporting, extortion, and adverse global economic developments are among the factors that led to the closure of the rural banks of Legacy Group, according to its chair emeritus Celso de los Angeles Jr.

"I have a story to tell. I have the records to show," he said in an interview with the Inquirer at his Black Sands Beach Resort in Barangay Calayucay here late Sunday afternoon.

De los Angeles, mayor of this town, was given the honorary title chair emeritus as founder of the Legacy Group.

He admitted that what happened to his companies was "very painful."

"But it would be criminal for me to continue, knowing that I would not be able to deliver," said De los Angeles, a graduate of Asian Institute of Management and great-grandson of Laureano Guevara, the Marikina mayor who established the Marikina shoe industry in 1887.

"So when I knew that it was impossible already I had to cut it," he said.

De los Angeles said a lot of people questioned his decision, asking why it was so abrupt.

"Because by continuing it further, I would put an innocent investor at risk, take his money, knowing that there is no more chance for me to return it—that is criminal," he said.

Court junks Alabang Boys' bid for liberty, upholds PDEA

By Norman Bordadora

THE COURT OF APPEALS HAS junked the shot at liberty of the so-called Alabang Boys almost two months after state prosecutors found no probable cause to charge them with drug trafficking.

The Special 13th Division dismissed the petition for the writ of habeas corpus of Richard Brodett, Joseph Tecson and Jorge Joseph, saying their continued detention by the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency (PDEA) was "justified."

In its 11-page decision promulgated on Jan. 30, the court said that the state prosecutors' finding of lack of probable cause could not be considered binding and effective without the final approval of Justice Secretary Raul Gonzalez.

"Accordingly, the preliminary investigation proceedings have not yet been completed," the court said, adding that the continued detention of the three suspects was "for a valid and just cause."

"I was expecting that because to me there was really no legal basis for that but I'm happy because, first, it sustained in effect the validity of (Department of Justice Circular No. 46) and my order to have automatic review and during the pendency of the review there can be no release," Gonzalez told reporters.

"That was the moot of that habeas corpus case," he said.

Debate heats up anew over plan to revive mothballed nuke plant

By Leila B. Salaverria

THE ARGUMENTS HAD BEEN heard before like a broken record.

They were raised again yesterday as Congress began debates on a bill that seeks to revive, at the cost of another $1 billion, the $2.3-billion Bataan Nuclear Power Plant (BNPP) mothballed over two decades ago.

First, said Albay Rep. Edcel Lagman and geologist Kelvin Rodolfo, comprehensive studies on the safety, technical and financial aspects of the plant should be made by the Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology (Phivolcs).

They said at the hearing of the House committee on appropriations that the bill initiated by Pangasinan Rep. Mark Cojuangco was premature.

"There should be a study of the site, led by Phivolcs, a study by geologists with no conflict of

$31-M loan powers light bulb project

By Amy R. Remo

THE ASIAN DEVELOPMENT Bank (ADB) has granted the Philippine government a $31.1-million loan to finance its program of encouraging households and businesses to swap their incandescent bulbs for the more energy-efficient fluorescent lights.

The government wants to phase out the iconic bulbs by 2010 as the most effective way to save electricity and reduce greenhouse gases. The shift to fluorescent lights is expected to save the country $100 million in fuel costs annually.

Under the Philippine Energy Efficiency Project, the Manila-based bank plans to distribute 13 million fluorescent globes—"so-

WB stands by its probe of contractors

By Niñña Dizon

THE HIGHEST ranking World Bank official in the Philippines yesterday defended the bank's decision to ban three Filipino contractors from its projects, saying due process was followed in its investigation of collusion in bid rigging for a $33-million road project.

WB country director Bert Hofman declined to comment directly on the House of Representatives' exoneration of the contractors.

"We're quite confident that due process has taken place," Hofman said only the sideline of the ... assessment of the Kalahi poverty alleviation program, an initiative of the government and the World Bank.

The bank's internal investigation resulted, ... of the three firms and four Chinese companies engaged in collusive practices to rig the bid.

"In response to questions, I elaborate on the process of investigation and evaluation and the decision of the Board," Hofman said.

He defended the investigation as a "very long and very careful" process designed by World Bank staff.

The process was approved by the stakeholders of the bank, including the Philippines, Hofman pointed out.

Eduardo de Luna, owner of E.C. de Luna Construction Corp., which was banned permanently by the World Bank, denied at two congressional hearings colluding with Filipino and Chinese companies to rig the bid for a $33-million road project.

On Jan. 14, the World Bank released a statement saying it had barred the Filipino and Chinese contractors "for engaging in collusive practices under a major bank-financed road project in the Philippines."

Leonard McCarthy, World Bank integrity vice president, said in the statement that this incident was "one of the most important and far-reaching cases, and it highlights the effectiveness of the World Bank's investigative and sanctions process."

"As the World Bank Group continues to ramp up its anticorruption work, INT (Integrity vice presidency) will remain vigilant in investigating allegations and holding wrongdoers accountable," Mr. McCarthy said.

According to the statement, the INT is "responsible for investigating allegations of fraud and corruption in bank-financed operations."

Jollibee Chickenjoy: All-time family favorite

It could be the tempting aroma that greets you with every serving, or the deliciously crispy golden-brown skin. For some, it could be the meat itself that is cooked to juicy perfection, or the rich combination of flavors when paired with that delicious gravy. Indeed, there are a thousand and one reasons why families all over the country have kept coming back to Jollibee's more than 600 stores nationwide for a taste of Chickenjoy.

Thanks to the country's number one fried chicken, what starts out as a simple craving evolves into a simple but memorable, family-bonding experience. The crispylicious, juicylicious, amoy-delicious and gravylicious Chickenjoy treat makes every moment shared with loved ones even more special.

Just ask Aga Muhlach about the whole Chickenjoy experience and he'll definitely agree. The matinee idol has become a family man and, much like many Filipinos, attests to Jollibee's Chickenjoy as the country's best-tasting fried chicken. He has been proudly endorsing the product for more than 11 years now, yet he remains excited to share his ultimate comfort food with fans through his latest Jollibee commercial that shows how his favorite food treat still reigns in the country. "Sa buong Pilipinas, Chickenjoy ang the best!"

The good news is this delightful experience can be easily shared by the whole family over and over again with Jollibee's 6-pc Chickenjoy bucket in a new and fresh packaging. For the same affordable price of P[illegible], your family still gets the favorite fried chicken taste that each and every Filipino has grown to love.

"Still likes it here," Jobelle Salvador says of her 8-year-old daughter Jolyana.

Jobelle

I prayed a lot. I knew God would take care of me. When Jolyana's dad left us, it was hard only because I was used to being with him for eight years. I was used to our lifestyle, but very few things have changed. I'm still able to pay for all my bills. [illegible] (Laughs)

Haven't you considered dating other guys?

I'm not ready yet, [illegible]. I'm happy hanging out with friends. A lot of things changed when I left for Japan. I used to love adventure. I used to go diving. In Japan, I think I only went to the beach once.

What advice would you give to other Filipino single moms?

It was my mom who took care of [illegible]. But with Jolyana, [illegible]. I breast-fed her and had little sleep. I'm proud to have raised her on my own. I hope moms would really spend quality time with their kids. I hope they wouldn't blame their kids for their own [illegible]. [illegible]

During my way to Japan, I noticed that many Japanese parents don't really find time for their kids. Based on the stories of Filipino women I've talked with, they don't have control of their own household. The male parent has a say on everything.

What will happen to your projects in Japan now that you're based here?

I still want to help. I still get a lot of e-mails from Filipino women there. With [illegible] Foundation, I was hoping to build a family development center. Sadly, I still have to iron out some kinks with my sponsors.

I plan to continue here what I've begun in Japan. I used to get a lot of calls from women who were physically abused or getting [illegible]. I brought them to the shelter or to friends who offered their homes. There's this woman who couldn't go out of her house for three months because of visa problems, [illegible]. She didn't know who can help her, so I did.

What was it like growing up with the respected actor-director Lenny Salvador for a father?

It was both an advantage and a disadvantage. It was easy for me to join the biz, but it was tough to stay there because people have high expectations. [illegible] He was 52 when he died. I was the only girl in the family so people saw me as a spoiled brat. I have six brothers. Papa took me everywhere he went, even to the tapings and [illegible].

What was his greatest advice to you?

[illegible] Back in the '90s, I was a rebel. [illegible] during my stay in Japan. Papa also used to remind me to prioritize my work and respect my coworkers, especially the senior stars.

Will you allow your kids to pursue a career in show biz, too?

I don't mind as long as they don't neglect their studies. I joined show biz when I was 5 but stopped when I turned 8 to concentrate on school. I finished elementary in San Agustin. I did "Bagets" a few months before I graduated from high school. I enrolled in UP to take up a management course. But sadly I still have to complete it.

What will happen to Jolyana's schooling now that she's here?

Now she has to learn to read and write in English. She had one term in Japan. She can speak three languages. [illegible] she can already read and write in Japanese.
